LOCAL BREVITIES.

(From Saturday's Advertiser.)
Charles Jones, freight clerk of the steamer Mauna Loa, is alive and well despite last Sunday's rumor that he had died at Kailua.

Harry Gregson has been promoted from lighthouse keeper at Fisherman's Point, Kona, to take charge of Harbor's Point lighthouse, Oahu.

The light from the volcano was visible from Punaluu when the Mauna Loa was there this week. It was reported that the summit crater of Mauna Loa was smoking.

Honolulu Sugar Co. had its annual meeting at the office of F. A. Schaefer & Co. yesterday. Last year's crop was about 7759 tons and this year's is estimated to be 200 tons less.

F. W. Milverton of the Attorney General's Department will attend the court term at Hilo next week. He will watch the criminal calendar and appear for the Territory in several fishery cases.

Mrs. N. Russell is preparing to leave for Japan where her husband, the noted Russian agitator, is now in medical practice. Dr. Russell writes his wife that his examination for license to practise in Japan was given in the English language.

Mrs. Isabella McDougall died at the home of her son George in South Kona on Thursday. She leaves an only son named William, who is in charge of the Kohala Club. Mrs. McDougall was a native of Canada, 79 years of age, and the widow of an old resident of Kona who died a few years ago.

(From Saturday's Advertiser.)
The Barre estate case was partly heard by Judge De Bolt on Saturday and continued to March 9.

W. R. Patterson, the contractor, leaves Thursday for Kauai to erect a large cement settling tank for the Waimea waterworks. He will be away about two weeks.

August Dreier, on reading in a newspaper that Superintendent J. D. McVeigh intended buying Zoo animals and birds to amuse the people at the Settlement, promptly handed out $100 in aid of the object.

Complaint comes from Kona of the failure of the postoffice to include the Kona in the mail service leaving Honolulu by the Friday afternoon steamer, on days when the Mauna Loa does not sail. If that was included the people of those districts would have a satisfactory semi-weekly mail service.

Matlock Campbell, under cross-examination in the lumber trust case, was asked if he had not made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors and if such was not the reason why he could not get lumber from the Coast. In reply he said the reason for making the assignment was the high freight rates charged on his lumber.

Supervisor Shipman lately visited the lava flow and found the surface almost too hot to touch.

The schooner W. H. Marston is the only sailing craft in Hilo, except the ship Falls of Clyde.

A severe storm in the channels prevented the steamer Claudine from leaving Hilo until last night.

Four hundred Japanese applied for steamer passage in the Aorangi for Vancouver but there is room for not more than twenty.

Still another clerical magnate is announced as about to visit Honolulu. This is Rev. Dr. Arthur Lloyd, secretary of the Board of Missions of the Protestant Episcopal church, expected to arrive here in June and remain in the islands ten days.

It is planned to have the Lanai investigating committee go to the island in the Mauna Loa on the 15th, and the Settlement visitation committee on the 16th inst., on its return the following night, Sunday, picking up the Lanai party.

Kauai had a record rainfall, with lightning accompaniment, on Sunday. Waimea got fifteen inches, Kekaha eleven and Makaweli ten. HOME RULERS KICK ABOUT THE JUNKET

The Home Rule is disgusted with the proposed junketing visit of the invited Congressmen and lays the blame for the affair on the shoulders of Delegate to Congress Kuhl. It expresses a grave doubt, too, as to whether the native Hawaiians will be allowed to converse with the visitors and lay their grievances before them unmuzzled. In its issue of March 1, the Home Rule says:

"During Wilcox's time as Delegate to Congress United States Senators visited Hawaii at their own expense and the Hawaiian Legislature was not burdened. But now, in Kuhl's time, our Legislature is asked to spend a big sum of money to bring some of the members of Congress here. This shows the vast difference there is between the political wisdom of the Home Rule leader, now lying in his grave in Kaula cemetery, and that of the Republican delegate, sitting in his seat at Washington."

"A member of the present Hawaiian Senate explained the other day that the reason his support was given to the appropriation, which will be loosely spent from the Hawaiian treasury, was that the coming of these honorable members would give the Hawaiians opportunities to meet them and to present their petitions. The idea of this senator is a good one, but can the petitions of those Hawaiians who are not already muzzled, reach the visitors in a recognizable shape. Are there people who will undoubtedly oppose them?"

DING DINGS RING UP NINE FARES

Rapid Transits, 9; Infantry, 7. That is in brief, the story of Saturday's game on the League grounds. A small crowd of soldiers, sailors and civilians watched the game. Considering the fact that nothing else was doing in the sporting line yesterday, it is surprising that the crowd was small.

Reuter was in the Rapid's pitcher's box and the soldiers are to be complimented on the showing they made against him.

The Infantry took the field first and made the first inning a goose, not one reaching first base.

Fern of the Transit team reached second but was put out on third. When Evers reached for his bat it looked like a safe run but Carey, by a bit of skillful pitching, put him out on third.

The second inning was a repetition of the first for both sides. The third, however, showed some good work on the part of the fare-takers, for they succeeded in ringing up five runs to their opponents.

The Infantry turned the tables on their opponents in the fourth inning as they made three runs to the Rapids.

The fifth inning saw the last of the Rapids runs, for after the four which they made in that inning, the others were filled with gooses.

The soldiers made two runs apiece in the sixth and eighth innings.

Considering the fact that they have no place to practise, some surprising team-work was shown by the Rapid Transit team.

Following is the line-up of both teams:

Infantry—Bruns, lf.; Ringland, c.; Brown, p.; Van Vleet, 2b.; Boyle, ss.; Carey, 3b.; Roberts, cf.; Heyden, rf.; Dougherty, lb.

H. R. T. & L. Co.—Fern, 3b.; Hamauku, c.; Evers, ss.; Robinson, lb.; Aylett, 2b.; Reuter, p.; Plunkett, cf.; Williams, rf.; Boyer, lf.

Umpire—Davis.

Base on balls: Williams, Robinson.

PUNAHOU ARE CHAMPIONS

Confident that they could beat the Punaluu I. team and win the championship of the school league, the High School II. challenged the Puns last Wednesday to a game of soccer on the Punaluu field. The Puns accepted the challenge and met the Highs yesterday afternoon. The game was called for 3:30, but Bailey of the Highs delayed it twelve minutes by his absence. Just as the Highs had decided to play without his assistance, he turned up amid the cries of "hurry up," from both sides.

For amateur teams, they certainly played a good game; the Highs kept the score down and had Gilliland kicked just a trifle harder, the score would have been a tie. As it was, the Highs lost by one goal.

Pullback Withington and Forward Mon Yin were Punaluu's towers of strength. The former's good kicks won applause from even his opponents, while the latter's spectacular running will be on the tongues of the Oahu for sometime.

Following is the line up: Punaluu—Frazier, goal; L. Withington, Akina, fullbacks; Smith, Lo On, F. Dodge, halfbacks; Mon Yin, Desha, Lyman, S. Dodge, Davis, forwards.

H. H. S.—Achleu, goal; R. Chillingworth, Hughes, fullbacks; Turner, Gilliland, Akina, halfbacks; Davis, White, Bailey, H. Chillingworth, Rice, forwards.

Referee—E. Grune.

MAINLAND SPORT

John Sullivan says that in his prime he could have whipped Jeffries in ten rounds provided London prize-ring rules were used.

William Melody who is known in prize rings as "Honey" Melody, the welterweight fighter, is the limit as far as his character and his profession go. He goes to church every Sunday and teaches a Sunday school class in the afternoon. He never uses tobacco nor intoxicating liquors and is never out of condition. He eats the food his mother cooks for him and does all his training at home. He has a terrific punch and one which carries a knock-out at all times.

Just who is the richest prizefighter in the world is a question which mainland sports are bothering about. Jeffries' name has been mentioned in this connection, as well as Ryan's, Britt and O'Brien's, but it is thought by those who know that Gallagher, in all probability, has this honor. He recently sold a building in Denver for $150,000 and is the owner of other valuable real estate in that city.

The San Francisco Chronicle refers to Barney Joy as the "kanaka signed by Danny Long of the Seals."

A. V. Gear enters a general denial to the complaint of Lewers & Cooke against him and the partners of River Mill Co., and makes a similar answer to the complaint of J. O. Carter and others in another suit against him.

MAPLE LEAF WILL COMPETE

"The members of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club are very keen on the transpacific yacht race and will certainly have a boat ready to enter the contest in 1908," said A. G. Thynne, a guest at the Young Hotel yesterday. Mr. Thynne is an enthusiastic yachtsman and a vice commodore of the Vancouver club, whose entry for the first transpacific race, the Maple Leaf, had to be scratched at the last moment.

"The only reason for withdrawing the Maple Leaf from the race was that the time was too short in which to fit her out for the long sea voyage. She is the property of Alexander McLaren, of Ottawa, a royal sportsman, who was as much disappointed that Canada and the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club was not represented after all in the big race as we all were. Mr. McLaren has told me, however, that he will have the Maple Leaf ready for the next race and it is possible that other of our yachts may also cross the starting line when the judge's gun booms out the signal for the start for Honolulu."

The Vancouver association of yachtsmen is a young organization but a strong one, having nearly three hundred members and having its royal bunting flying from a hundred crafts of different kinds, including steam and motor launches. The waters about Vancouver are nearly ideal for yachting, the protected arm of the ocean reaching back of Vancouver island for a hundred miles and being from ten to thirty miles wide, the shores lined with beautifully wooded bays and winding inlets.

The club is a member of the international association, which includes the clubs of Seattle, Port Townsend, Bellingham, Victoria and Vancouver. These clubs hold an annual regatta at one or another of these places and race annually for an international cup. A meeting of the executive of the association was recently held, at which it was decided to accept the rules for measurement and rating in use by the Atlantic yacht clubs, and in future only the 28-foot class of yachts will be entered in the international cup contests. This cup now is held by the Gwendolyn, of the Seattle yacht club.

Mr. Thynne, who is accompanied by his wife, will spend a short time here. Today they leave for the volcano and on their return will be entertained by some of the members of the Hawaii Yacht Club. It had been the intention of Commodore Cooper to cruise yesterday in the Helene with Mr. Thynne, but the high off-shore winds prevented this.

KUNALU GIRLS WILL NOT ROW

It is all settled now. The Kunalu girls are not going to row and the chief event on the Waikiki regatta program has to be stricken out.

"It is not because of Lent, and it is not because we are afraid of the Kailua," said Miss Damon yesterday, "but because we have no boat." And that is all true, for the only boat available is a large ship's boat belonging to the Manning, weighing, according to the club, over two hundred pounds.

When the event was first spoken of, A. L. C. Atkinson's boat was to be used, but that got smashed up in the storm at Pearl Harbor.

The Kunalu Rowing Club has some crack rowers and the second event on the program would have been the best, but all hope has departed, unless some philanthropic sport furnishes the girls with a nice, light boat.

Basketball Gossip.

The Kailua girls have stopped practising for awhile as the rain has made their courts too slippery.

Prof. Wood of the Normal School has offered a cup to the class winning the championship in the inter-class meets.

The Diamond Heads have divided themselves into five teams to play basketball. The games are played on the High School grounds, to which the public is invited.

THE SHERIFF'S TOUR.

Sheriff Iaukea left yesterday for a tour of inspection around the island. He will look into the work being done by the country police in the various districts and advise them as to the manner in which he would have the police affairs administered. It is quite probable, too, that as a result of his inspection there will be a number of changes made in the rural police force. He was accompanied yesterday by Chief Detective Taylor, who went with the Sheriff as far as Koolau.

THE PRESIDENTIAL LINES FORMING LINDSAY HOLDS TERM ON KAUAI

(Mail Special to the Advertiser.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 16.—Two things of some moment in the maneuvers for nominating the next President have come to the surface here in recent days. One is a prospect, forecasted by good authority, that Senator Foraker will eventually eliminate himself as a presidential possibility and strike hands with Secretary Taft. The other is an incipient boom for Senator Culberson, of Texas. It is being brought to the front by Democrats of Northern cities, some of whom are Southern born.

Senator Foraker, of course, has never declared himself in the running and has been more or less passive under the discussion of his availability. At present he undoubtedly holds the Ohio situation firmly and to all appearances could have the delegates from that state to the next National Convention, should he want them. But it is claimed that Senator Foraker is most concerned that President Roosevelt shall not be renominated and that, as soon as he is assured beyond all doubt, will quietly step aside and permit Secretary Taft to get the Ohio delegates if he can. There has been a lot of political bitterness between the President and Senator Foraker and the latter prefers to have some one in the White House with whom he can maintain more amicable personal relations.

Such action, of course, would be to the political glorification of Ohio. That State would like very much to have another President and all the patronage favors which go with such an honor. At the same time, Senator Foraker is not blind to the unpopularity of his attitude on railroad legislation and to the fact that, even if he could secure a nomination, the charge of being a reactionary would be raised at once against him and, probably, with telling effect. If the efforts to bring about such a condition of affairs in Ohio succeed, it would immensely strengthen Secretary Taft's prospects and would be a long step toward narrowing the rivalry for the Republican nomination to himself and Vice President Fairbanks.

Secretary Taft remains as indifferent as ever to all plans to nominate him as Roosevelt's successor but there are men working actively for him in spite of this. The semblance of an organization in his interest has already been started and this organization is to be rapidly enlarged in its scope and efficiency.

The Secretary's brothers are very much alive to his presidential chances. One of them, ex-Representative Charles F. Taft, editor of the Cincinnati Times-Star, while here the past week, said in conversation that the Secretary would certainly be nominated and elected. Whether or not Secretary Taft becomes formidable as a candidate, the friends of Vice President Fairbanks are carefully noting the developments for the nomination of the present head of the War Department and also the arguments that the Secretary's friends are using with some effect that, if nominated, Mr. Fairbanks would not be elected. The visit here a few days ago of ex-Governor Durbin, of Indiana, started the anti-Fairbanks talk. He and the vice president have some old political scores to settle. But while ex-Governor Durbin's attack on Mr. Fairbanks as a vice presidential candidate rested largely on personal animosity, much that he said is being weighed by the Republicans of Congress who are political leaders in their respective States. It is having some weight, for instance, with the Massachusetts Republicans here although the Massachusetts Senators and Representatives have a very kindly feeling for the vice president and may yet decide to support him for promotion. It is having weight, too, with Ohio Republicans and the Republicans of some other Western States.

It was proposed here recently that a dinner of representative Democrats be held to launch a boom for Senator Charles A. Culberson, of Texas. That idea has been abandoned for the present, but other means are being used to bring his name to the front as a presidential candidate. An argument being urged for him is that he will command in the south all the strength that Bryan could command—and probably more—and that he would be very acceptable to a large contingent of Southerners in New York, Chicago and other large Northern centers. These Southerners, residing in the North never have taken kindly to Mr. Bryan. Their votes in New York and Chicago were always cast in the main against Mr. Bryan. To their hostile attitude is attributed the poor showing Bryan made at the 1896 and 1900 elections in those cities.

These and other Democrats in the North are now talking up the Culberson nomination. He is not very well known outside of the South, although, beyond question, he is one of the most upright men in public life and likewise very capable. Just past 50 years old, he has had a long and creditable

DE BOLT'S COURT.

Before Judge De Bolt the suit on promissory note of L
